

Technology has opened up new ways of doing research - learn how to use it effectively, and make your project stand out.

Building Scholarly Resources for Wider Public Engagement

RADCLIFFE OBSERVATORY QUARTER, OXFORD | 13 JUNE

This workshop, funded by the AHRC, introduces key ways of using digital tools in scholarship. Designed for graduate students and early-career researchers in a time where funding is increasingly hard to find, it provides the perfect opportunity to explore the potential of the digital humanities with the field's leading specialists.

Legal and ethical issues, with a speaker who has advised Yahoo and Disney on copyright and privacy

Crowdsourcing, with speakers from Zooniverse and other pioneering online projects

Publishing research without conventional scholarly journals, with a strategic advisor to the UK Economic and Social Research Council

Other speakers from Kings College London, the Bodleian Digital Library, and the British Library

Confirmed Speakers

Matt Vitins and Anna Crowe
Dr Robert Simpson
Dr Ernesto Priego and Dr James Baker
Michael Popham
Dr Ylva Berglund Prytz
Judith Siefring
David Tomkins
Dr Robert Mcnamee
Dr Stewart Brookes
Dr Michael Athanson
Professor David de Roure
Professor Howard Hotson

Book Now!

for more information and to book,
scan code or click here

